To whom it may concern,

I am writing to express my interest in the English Teacher position. I am an enthusiastic and dedicated English as a Foreign Language teacher with almost eight years of experience, and I truly enjoy working with students and helping them learn. I believe my experience, reliability, and passion for teaching would make me a good fit for your school.

Over the years, I have taught a wide range of students, from very young children aged four to middle school students. This has helped me learn how to adjust my teaching style to suit different age groups and learning needs. I have also developed strong communication skills and enjoy working well with others as part of a team. I am organised, dependable, and comfortable managing my responsibilities in a busy school environment.

In my previous roles, I was responsible for organising lessons and planning book work, including preparing semester schedules for class activities and homework. I always try to be thoughtful and proactive in my work, and I am open to learning new things and continuing to improve as a teacher. I also believe that encouragement and motivation are very important in helping children succeed, especially when they find something challenging.

I make a point of communicating clearly with colleagues about what is happening in my classes so that everyone stays informed and can offer support or advice when needed. I really value good communication and teamwork, and I enjoy working with others to create the best possible learning environment for students.

Please take a look at my attached resume and credentials. I would be very happy to speak with you further about my application and how I may be able to contribute to your school.

I would also like to mention that I do have a small dog. He is very well behaved, house trained, and friendly. I understand that this may be something some schools like to know in advance, so I wanted to be upfront about it.

Thank you very much for your time and consideration. I look forward to hearing from you.

Regards,
