RE: EFL Teacher

Dear Hiring Manager,

I am excited to apply for the EFL Teacher position in South Korea, as advertised. With a background that combines a decade of experience in hairstyling and a passion for education, I bring an artistic flair to lesson planning and classroom management that fosters engaging learning environments.

Throughout my career, I have honed my skills in problem-solving and organization. These abilities have been instrumental not only in managing client needs but also in collaborating effectively with diverse teams. My time spent honing these skills has prepared me to create dynamic lesson plans tailored to students' interests while ensuring their progress is assessed thoughtfully.

My approach as an educator is rooted in creativity and collaboration. I believe that teaching conversational English opens doors for students, allowing them to express themselves more freely while building confidence. My experiences have taught me the importance of adaptability—an essential trait when working with learners from various backgrounds.

While there has been a gap due to family medical issues, this time has deepened my commitment to fostering supportive environments where individuals can thrive academically and personally. I am eager to bring this perspective into the classroom as an EFL Teacher.

Thank you for considering my application. I look forward to the opportunity to contribute positively at your institution and inspire students through creative language learning.

Sincerely,

Megan Redrup
