To Whom It May Concern:

This letter is in reference to Rachel Bailey. I have been her supervisor for the past 9 months starting from January 29, 2018. She will be finishing her full 1-year contract at the end of January 2019. Rachel was hired as an English Teacher, and her main responsibilities are to motivate and teach elementary school students in the following: reading, writing, and critical thinking skills. She has a wonderful work ethic, organizational and leadership skills as well as a genuine interest and care for her students.

Rachel has proven herself to be the model teacher who is often sought out by the students and the parents. She is always on time while being prepared and ready to teach every day, and usually arrives much earlier, preparing for the day's lessons. Whenever she has questions about the curriculum or wants some feedback on how to teach better, she approaches me, and we talk it out.

Rachel is highly organized and a quick problem solver. She also demonstrates strong leadership skills in the classroom. Her students are well organized, and they all know what is expected of them. She holds them accountable and measurably shows them all how to improve. When they do improve, she rewards them with small prizes to reinforce their learning. Her students love learning from her, and we often receive glowing feedback from the parents.

Other than Rachel's superb work ethic, organizational skills, and leadership, she also has very strong communication skills, both verbal and written. She has the natural acumen to be successful in any future school, business or organization. I have absolute confidence that she will be successful participating in any organization or program, and I highly recommend her. If you have any further questions, I would be happy to answer them.

Best Regards,

Jae Chi
