PROFESSIONAL PROFILE

Dedicated ESL educator and media professional with over three years of classroom teaching experience in South Korea and a strong foundation in English language instruction across all age groups. Holds a double major in Media Studies and Organisational Psychology, combining an understanding of communication, human behaviour, and learning with practical teaching experience. Has taught English to learners aged 5 to 15 in classroom and camp settings, and continues to provide private one-on-one tutoring to students from young children through to adults — covering conversational English, reading, writing, grammar, pronunciation, and book analysis. Additionally brings a year of professional experience writing original children's educational content, including scripts, stories, and nursery rhymes for an AI-powered learning platform, demonstrating a strong grasp of age-appropriate language, curriculum development, and creative pedagogy. A native English speaker fluent in Xhosa and intermediate in Korean, with seven years of lived experience in Korea and a genuine understanding of the specific challenges Korean learners face with English. Background in media, MC work, and live performance adds energy, adaptability, and a natural ability to hold a room — whether that room is a stage or a classroom.
