Soon to be University of Cambridge graduate who is looking for a suitable teaching post in Seoul, South Korea. I have a passion for teaching, having spent a part of my summer break working with high schoolers in London, and am excited to explore future opportunities globally. Last year, I visited South Korea and discovered a dynamic and exciting culture, one in which I would be excited to work and teach in. I hope to not only be a teacher to others, but myself to learn too from this experience.
